17th Annual π (Pi) Day and 12th Annual π Pi Day Pi(e) Fight

Open Monday, March 14

March 14 is π (Pi) Day and it's also Albert Einstein's birthday! Children's Museum Houston is where the original international π (Pi) Day sensation started nearly 20-years ago and it has caught on ever since! Come and celebrate the infinite, non-repeating number 3.14... as we close our street to duke it out in a messy, Pi(e)-induced commotion during our 12th Annual Shaving Cream Pi(e) Fight. Get tossed into the π (Pi) Day celebration at 1:59 p.m. (1.59 because the numbers follow 3.14159) and get ready for a fun-filled day of all things π (Pi) including pudding pies and circle art.

Superpowered Showdown

Saturday, March 19

Superheroes unite to beat boredom and all that stands against Spring Break fun. Kids by day, crime-fighters by night! Snap a selfie with PJ Masks' Owlette and Catboy. Join Batman, Batgirl, Harley Quinn, Wonder Woman, Star-Lord and Storm for super selfies. Then, join local artist Christian Navarrete as he shows you how to design an action-packed comic book.
